INTRODUCTION –

International Women's Day (IWD) is a global holiday celebrated annually on March 8 to commemorate the cultural, political, and socioeconomic achievements of women. It is also a focal point in the women's rights movement, bringing attention to issues such as gender equality, reproductive rights, and violence and abuse against women.

Woman – the power to create, nurture and transform! The word 'woman' conjures up the images of selfless love, care and affection. At the same time, women ignite the spirit of power and hope. Unfortunately, across the world, women had to fight for their independence and protection of rights. Since decades, women had struggled and are still fighting to express their right to speech, to vote, to equality, to education, to income and most importantly, to freedom.

International Women's Day honours the women who have paved the path towards our progress and struggled to take 'womanhood' to a level where it is now. Unfortunately, at the same time, the day is a reminder of the discrimination and inequality that still continues to plague our society. This special day, dedicated to women around the world, is a celebration of the great success of women across all spheres of life as well as shaping the future.

International Women's Day 2022: The global occasion celebrating the social, economic, cultural, and political achievements of women is actually represented by three colours: Purple, Green and White. Purple Symbolises Feminist Movement. Wearing purple on this day shows that you are joining other women across the world in solidarity to celebrate this special day which also marks a call to action for accelerating gender parity. Purple signifies justice and dignity, green symbolizes hope and white represents purity.

The Theme for International Women's Day 2022 is, "Gender equality today for a sustainable tomorrow."

"Gender equality today for a sustainable tomorrow".

Advancing gender equality in the context of the climate crisis and disaster risk reduction is one of the greatest global challenges of the 21st century.

Women are increasingly being recognized as more vulnerable to climate change impacts than men, as they constitute the majority of the world's poor and are more dependent on the natural resources which climate change threatens the most.

At the same time, women and girls are effective and powerful leaders and change-makers for climate adaptation and mitigation. They are involved in sustainability initiatives around the world, and their participation and leadership results in more effective climate action.

Continuing to examine the opportunities, as well as the constraints, to empower women and girls to have a voice and be equal players in decision-making related to climate change and sustainability is essential for sustainable development and greater gender equality. Without gender equality today, a sustainable future, and an equal future, remains beyond our reach.

This International Women's Day, let's claim "Gender equality today for a sustainable tomorrow".

AIMS AND OBJECTIVE –

- ✚ Women's Day celebrates women's history, highlighting key events, milestones, and achievements, and aims to further promote and raise awareness of women's rights and to achieve equal opportunity status in all walks of life.
- ✚ The objective of Women's Day is to express love and gratitude towards women's contribution to our lives and society. It honours the power and struggles of women who have broken all barriers and reached the pinnacle of success in every sphere of life.
- ✚ The purpose of the day is to uphold women's achievements, recognize challenges, and focus greater attention on women's rights and gender equality.
- ✚ The purpose behind celebrating this day is to promote peace with women's rights. While every day is a women's day, this particular day is marked to honour all the women and their achievements regardless of the divisions, whether national, ethnic, linguistic, cultural, economic or political.

INTRODUCTION

Gender equality is when people of all genders have equal right, responsibilities and opportunities. everyone is affected by gender inequality – women, men trans and gender diverse people, children and families. It impacts people of all ages and background.

Women turnout during India's parliamentary general elections was 65.63 % compared to 67 .09% turnout for men. India rank 20th from the bottom in terms of representation of women in parliament.

Even in democratic societies in which gender equality is legally mandated, gender discrimination occurs in politics, both in regards to presumptions about political allegiances that fall along gender lines, and disparate gender representation within representative democracies. Historically, this was even more true when women were neither considered full citizens nor could not vote.

DEFINITION AND CONCEPT OF GENDER EQUALITY

Gender is a social – cultural term referring socially defined roles and behaviors assigned to 'males' and 'female' in a given society, whereas the term sex is a biologically and physiological phenomenon which defines men and women in its social, historical and cultural aspects, gender is a function of power relationship between men and women. Therefore, gender may be understood as a man – made concept, while 'sex' is natural or biological characteristics of human beings.

Gender equality in simple words, may be defined as discrimination against women based on their sex. Women are traditionally considered by the society as weaker sex. She has been accorded a subordinate position to men. She is exploited degraded, violated and discriminated.

IMPORTANCE OF GENDER EQUALITY IN POLITICS

- 1) Equal participation of women and men in politics is an important condition for effective democracy and good governance. Apart from strengthening and enhancing the democratic system, the participation of more women in political decision – making has many positive effects on society that can help improve the lives of women and men. Benefits include more equitable societies and inclusive governance, higher standard of living, positive development in education, health and infrastructure, and a decrease in political corruption.
- 2) Gender norms undermine women's role in public life, which prompt resistance to women's political leadership. The norms that keep women out of politics also shape their time and behavior, generating practical constraints to their participation in public and political life.
- 3) Gender equality prevents violence against women and girls. Its essentials for economic prosperity. Societies that value women and men as equal are safer and healthier. Gender equality is a human right.

The full and equitable participation of women in public life is essential to building and sustaining strong, vibrant democracies.

There is growing recognition of the untapped capacity and talents of women and women's leadership. Over the last two decades, the rate of women's representation in national parliaments globally has incrementally increased from 11.8 percent in 1998 to 17.8 percent in 2008 to 23.5 percent in 2018. Some regions have seen particularly dramatic increase, such as Sub-Saharan Africa, where in last 20 years the number of women in parliaments has risen from 11 to 23.6 percent, and the Arab States region, which has seen an increase from 3.1 to 17.5 percent. Total global representation is still well below the 30 percent benchmark often identified as the necessary level of representation to achieve a "critical mass" – a considerable minority of all legislators with significant impact, rather than a token few individuals – not to mention falling short of women's representation as half of the world's population.

Accordingly, the meaningful participation of women in national, local, and community leadership roles has become an important focus for global development policy.

Women's participation in politics helps advance gender equality and affects both the range of policy issues that get considered and the types of solutions that are proposed. Research indicates that whether a legislator is male or female has a distinct impact on their policy priorities. There is also strong evidence that as more women are elected to office, there is a corollary increase in policy making that emphasizes quality of life and reflects the priorities of families, women, and ethnic and racial minorities.
