Introduction

Transgender persons are an important part of society and play a significant role in community development. However, due to lack of awareness and social acceptance, they often face discrimination and exclusion. To create awareness among community members and promote equality, a role play programme was organized by B.Sc. Nursing 1st year students in the community area.

Objectives of the Programme

1. To create awareness about transgender persons and their role in the community.
2. To promote acceptance, equality, and respect for transgender individuals.
3. To educate the community regarding social inclusion and human rights.
4. To improve communication and leadership skills of B.Sc. Nursing students.

Description of the Programme

The programme started at 10.00 PM with the gathering of community members. The programme was initiated with a welcome address by a community leader. A brief introduction about the importance of the topic was given by the community health nursing faculty.

The B.Sc. Nursing 1st year students presented a role play depicting the life, challenges, and contributions of transgender persons in the community. The role play highlighted issues such as discrimination, lack of opportunities, and the need for social acceptance. It also showed how transgender persons can actively contribute as health educators, workers, and responsible community members when given equal opportunities.

After the role play, a health education session was conducted focusing on equality, dignity, and rights of transgender persons. An interactive discussion was held with community members to clarify doubts and encourage positive attitudes.

Community members actively participated in the programme. Many expressed their views and shared their experiences. The programme helped to change negative perceptions and encouraged acceptance and respect towards transgender persons.

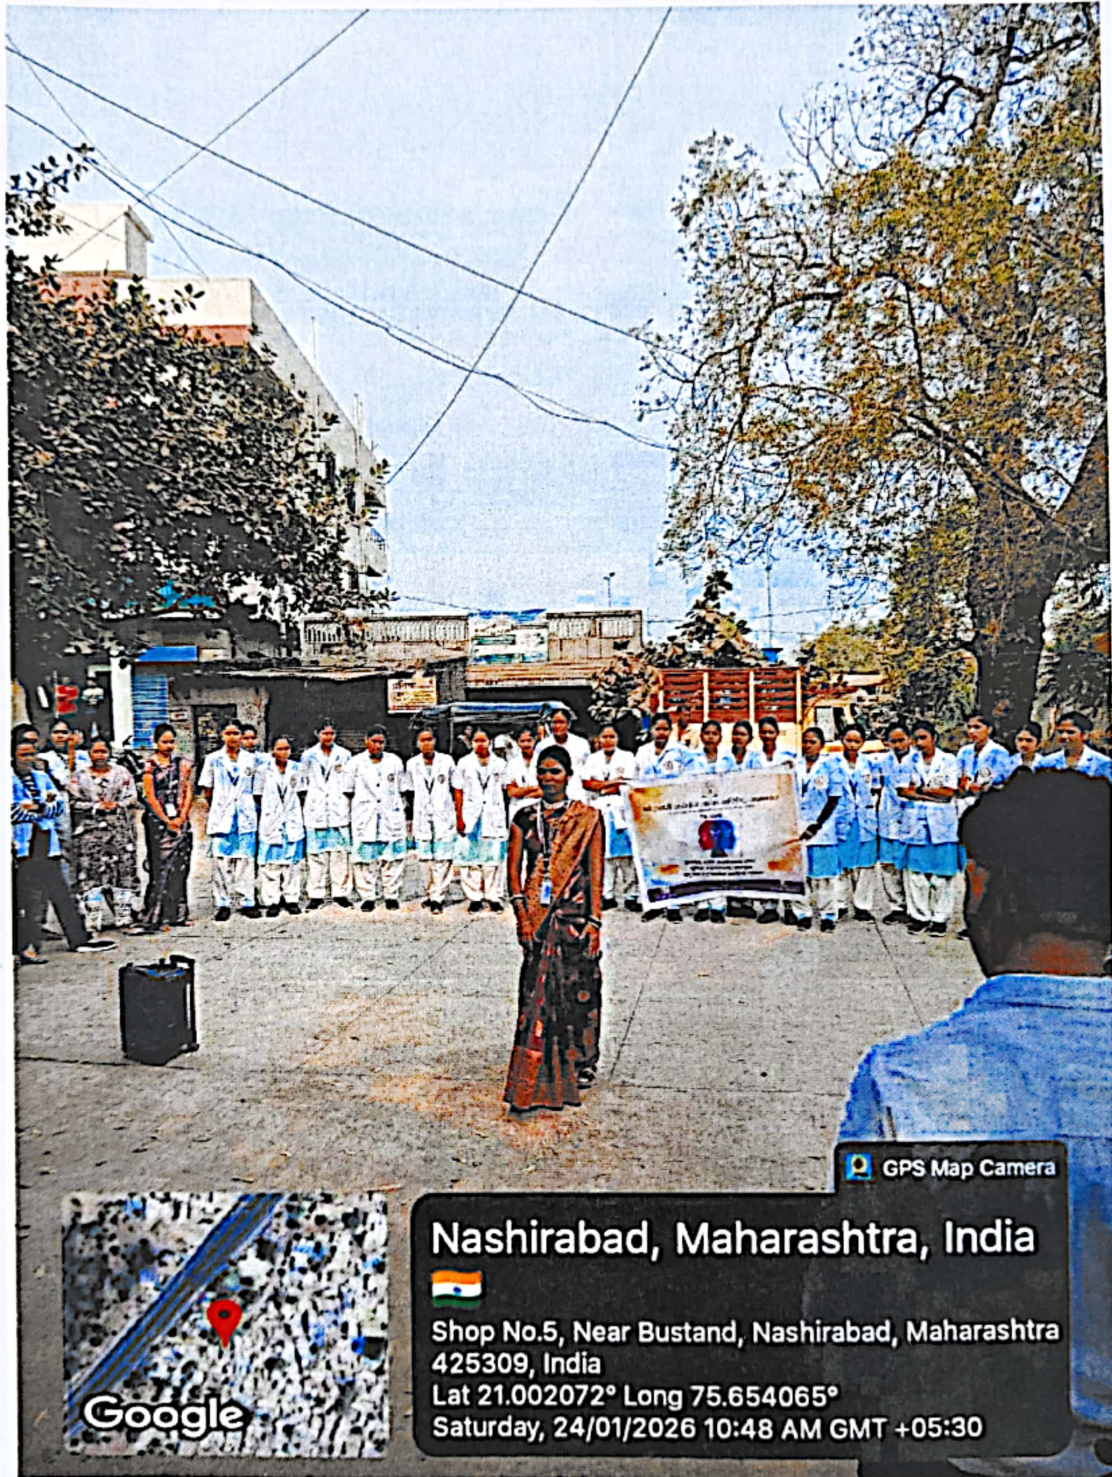

Outcome of the Programme

- Increased awareness about transgender inclusion in the community
- Positive change in attitude among community members
