INTRODUCTION

An essential component of newly recruited facilities' and students' proficiency and retention is nursing orientation. In addition to producing instructors and students who deliver competent, high-quality patient care, effective orientation and training programs also cultivate students who are valuable faculty members and students for institutions, enhancing their competencies. The Godavari College of Nursing initiated the Best Library Users Award for instructors and students in 2024–2025. The prizes were granted to students and staff in accordance with library policy, overseen by the library committee.

AIMS

1. To make it possible for institutional content to be delivered and managed, as well as to recognize and evaluate organizational and individual learning
2. To encourage the learner to use online resources for education.

Objectives

1. To create and share information, track student involvement, and evaluate student achievement
2. An online platform, known as an LMS, is utilized to organize, carry out, and evaluate a particular learning activity.

Library Management System Orientation and Best Library Users Award Report (2024-25)

A vital component of the academic community, the library offers tools, services, and a setting that is ideal for study and learning. For new users to get the most out of the library, they must participate in an efficient orientation program. Recognizing exceptional library users also promotes a culture of responsible resource use and academic performance.

For nursing professionals and students, the library is a vital resource since it offers up-to-date research, guidelines for evidence-based practice, and educational materials. Making the most of these tools is essential for nursing teachers and students, and it starts with an efficient orientation program. Recognizing exceptional library users also fosters a culture of excellence in the classroom and responsible library use.

Library Management System Orientation

Objectives:

The primary objectives of the library management system orientation are to:

1. Introduce nursing students and faculty to the library's specialized resources and services.
2. Teach efficient use of the library management system (LMS) for accessing nursing-related materials.
3. Promote best practices in evidence-based practice, research, and information literacy.

Orientation Program Structure

1. Introduction to Library Services:

- Overview of physical and digital resources.
- Introduction to library staff and their roles.
- Explanation of borrowing policies, fines, and interlibrary loan services.

2. Navigating the Library:

- Guided tour of the library, highlighting sections relevant to nursing, such as the medical and health sciences collections.
- Demonstration of how to locate nursing textbooks, journals, and reference materials using the cataloguing system.

3. Using the Library Management System:

- Hands-on training on how to access and use the LMS.
- Searching for books, journals, and other materials.
- Reserving and renewing items online.
- Accessing digital resources such as e-books, databases, and academic journals.

The Godavari College of Nursing Library Committee arranged an orientation to the library management system and a program to recognize the top library user among the faculty and students for the academic year 2024-2025. This program's objective was to encourage staff and students to utilize the library and its resources as effectively as possible.

Ms. Smita Ubale hosted the programme. The NAAC 4th criteria HOD, Mrs. Nimmi Varghese madam, delivered a welcome address about K- Hub and the use of the e-Library. Prof. Jacinth Dhaya C. H. Vice Principal of GCON, and all of the HODs of Godavari College of Nursing Jalgaon, gave certificates to the students who used the library. For the academic year 2024-2025, two faculty members and eight students were selected as the best library users from each BSc Nursing class. Ms. Snehal Jambhulkar gave a vote of thanks. The overall success of the programme was due to the presence of teaching staff and students.

The library advisory committee formed the policy for the best library users according to criteria for the selection

Best Library Users 2024-25

Criteria for Selection:

The best library users are selected based on the following criteria:

1. Frequency of Library Visits:

- Regular use of library facilities and services.

2. Responsible Use of Resources:

- Timely return of borrowed items.
- Minimal overdue instances.

4. Contribution to Library Community:

- Promoting library resources and services among peers.

1ST Year MSc

1. Vaishnavi Shahane
2. Gokarna Giri

2nd Year MSc

1. Collet Londhe
2. Prajakta Sawarkar

Conclusion

The orientation program for the library management system is essential for acclimating new users to the library and making sure they can make use of the resources and services in library. Honouring the most exceptional library patrons encourages accountability and participation, which benefits both the library and its patrons as a whole. The library will continue to be a vibrant and encouraging space for learning and research as long as it receives input and modifications on a regular basis.
