Report on Holi Celebration

Date : 04/03/2026

Godavari College of Nursing, Jalgaon

Godavari College of Nursing, Jalgaon celebrated the festival of Holi with great joy, enthusiasm, and vibrant colors on 3rd March 2026. The celebration began at 8:30 a.m. near the Cardiology Department, on the road leading towards the Physiotherapy and Homeopathic Departments.

The festival of Holi was celebrated with great enthusiasm while promoting the important message of environmental responsibility. The theme focused on celebrating the festival of colours in an eco-friendly manner and spreading awareness about water conservation. Students were encouraged to use natural and dry colours instead of chemical-based products and to avoid unnecessary wastage of water. The celebration emphasized that saving water today will help secure a better, vibrant, and colourful future for coming generations. Through this initiative, participants understood the importance of protecting natural resources while preserving the true spirit and joy of Holi.

All students gathered at the venue and participated in the celebration with excitement and unity. The campus was filled with happiness as students and faculty members applied colors to one another, symbolizing love, friendship, and togetherness. The event aimed to promote cultural values, harmony, and mutual respect among students.

The management had instructed all students to strictly follow hostel rules and maintain discipline throughout the program. Students cooperated well and ensured that the celebration was conducted in a safe and respectful manner. Strict instructions were given that any student found consuming alcohol would face suspension, and all students adhered to this rule responsibly.

The celebration concluded successfully with laughter, music, and a spirit of unity. The Holi festival at Godavari College of Nursing, Jalgaon was a memorable and joyful occasion for everyone present.
